TITLE IX

Policies, Reporting, and Support

equity.arizona.edu

THE UNIVERSITY
OF ARIZONA

The University of Arizona is committed to creating and maintaining an environment free of discrimination. In support of this commitment, the University prohibits sex- and gender-based discrimination, including harassment and violence. A person affected by discrimination can seek confidential support or assistance, can request supportive measures, and can request formal disciplinary proceedings by the University.

The University utilizes a variety of approaches to prevent and redress sex discrimination. We realize that individual community members who are affected in some way by sex discrimination may benefit from many sources of support and assistance. All members of our community must know where to turn if they have a concern, need assistance or support, or would like to file a complaint. We have compiled a collection of resources and information to assist members of the University community.

Both parties have an opportunity to receive supportive measures, to present their perspectives, to provide witnesses or information, to bring an advisor to any meeting, and to ask questions and seek clarification. The procedures for investigation and resolution of complaints are detailed in the applicable disciplinary/grievance procedures.

REPORTING OPTIONS

Anyone who experiences or is aware of incidents of discrimination or discriminatory harassment is encouraged to report the concern. There are a number of ways to report concerns and get information, support, and resources.
